

1ST PLACE

Ahh winner winner chicken dinner. I found the height of this mouse to be extremely nice. My E1 and E2 were both supported and had a nice place to go. My C1-3 also had a nice place to rest. The bulge on the back left side supported my E2 and F3 while not taking space away from my F1 and F2.

2ND PLACE

I found this mouse to be quite comfortable on my F1 and F2 because of the arch in the middle of the mouse. My C 1-3 rested on the outside edge of the mouse, which kept it tense and not relaxed as it was falling the entire time, my D1-3 was also dragging across the desk. My E1 and E2 I found also made next to no contact to the mouse due to its height, I had my E1 on the desk and was barely touching it.

3RD PLACE

This mouse had a nice big hump between my F1 and F2 which felt comfortable to me. Because of the small width, I found my C1 and C2 just kind hanging off the side and my D 1-3 dragging on the desk. I also found that only my E1 actually touched the mouse and my E2 was in a constant state of tension up off the mouse.

THE ABSOLUTE WORST (4TH PLACE)

I did not know how to approach this mouse, it felt decent on my A, B, and C's 1-3, but this mouse just feels super long. I could not decide on whether my F3 and F4 should be on the mouse.
